SB-5102

Investigations

Run internal security investigations that hold up — intake to close, with the chain of custody and documentation to back it.

SIMPLE. PRACTICAL. TRANSFERABLE.

Why This Matters

Most organizations discover their investigation process doesn't hold up when they're already in the middle of one that matters — evidence wasn't logged consistently, and notes exist in three different formats.

Investigations makes internal security investigations repeatable and defensible — intake, evidence handling, interviews, and documented closure — the operational backbone that runs underneath HR and Legal, not a replacement for either.
