Security Supervisor Training

Give frontline supervisors the specific security responsibilities their role carries — not just the employee-level training again.

SERIES 7000 • FOUNDATION • V1.0 • FREE PREVIEW

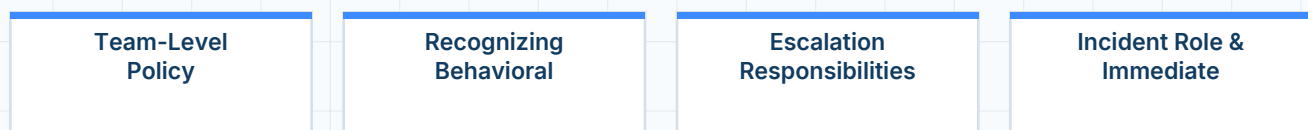

SIMPLE. PRACTICAL. TRANSFERABLE.

Why This Matters

A frontline supervisor sits close enough to their team to notice a behavioral change or a policy shortcut becoming habit — with the authority to actually act on it. Most organizations never train them for that specific role.

Security Supervisor Training is the role-specific layer on top of general employee awareness — team-level enforcement, recognizing behavioral indicators, escalation responsibilities, and incident role. Every supervisor also completes general employee training; this is what's added for the accountability that comes with the role.
